GAMEPLAY

OBJECTIVE

The objective of the game is to have interesting and meaningful conversation with friends and strangers while having fun doing so.

GAMEFEATURES

There are three types of cards. Question and Answer + Statement and Reaction + Open Discussion. Q&A cards have a question that needs answering. S&R cards have a very controversial statement that needs discussing. Open Discussion cards are for you to throw your own flavour into the game by asking your own question or making your own statement for the group to discuss.

RULES

THE GAME

There are no set rules to playing the game. We left it open for your group to be creative and allow the game to flow as you wish. However, we do offer a few recommendations.

GENERAL PLAY: Take turns pulling a card and reading it aloud. Then each player takes turn adding their input.

JUDGEMENT PLAY: For those of you looking to add a little excitement to your game play, check out this new game play option we like to call “Judgement.” The person pulling the card becomes the Judge. Each person has 30 seconds to respond to the card. The judge picks the best answer and all other players must take the Judge’s sentencing, except the player with the best answer. Sentencing can include taking a shot or multiple or a fun “I Dare You.” If the Judge pulls an “Open Discussion” card and wishes to pass it, then Judgement falls back on them and they must take a shot or multiple or take the “I Dare You” decided upon by the other players.
